Review of UK Porous Asphalt Trials (TRL 264) (TRL Report) J. C. Nicholls

Porous asphalt has been found to be a durable road surfacing material, as well as providing additional benefits such as the reduction of noise and spray. This report reviews the experience gained from extensive road trials by TRL and presents recommendations to assist those involved in the design, manufacture and application of porous asphalt. The road trials are interpreted in terms of the design and construction of porous asphalt layers; the properties that can be achieved from the material; and the maintenance implications of its use.
