Protecting Parent-Child Bonds: The 28th Amendment Ron B Palmer

“Protecting Parent-Child Bonds: The 28th Amendment” is a book for those seeking changes to our family law system through legislation and political activism. It describes a proposed amendment that will forever enshrine the protection of parent-child bonds into our United States Constitution. This Amendment spells out for all family courts that our children’s best interests are best protected by fit parents with strongly-protected and equal parental rights. If you want the family law system to change but don’t know how to make your voice count then get this book and simply send copies to your judges and legislators with a note saying “I want this constitutional Amendment.” Let this book make your arguments directly to those with the power to change the system.
